

Postdoctoral Research Fellow Position in Food Science and Technology Programme, NUS

A postdoc position is available in the Food Science and Technology Programme, c/o Department of Chemistry, National University of Singapore. The project goal is to study the phenomenon of photodynamic inactivation of moulds for developing a novel fruit preservation technology using light emitting diodes (LEDs).

Requirement:

The candidate should possess a PhD degree in the area of food science and technology or closely related fields with research experience and knowledge in microbiology and molecular biology. Research experience and knowledge in LED technology is highly desirable.

Recruitment package:

2 year contract renewable;

Salary range: 4,500 – 6,000S$/month including medical insurance and CPF

Position is available immediately.

Contact:

Professor Zhou Weibiao
Food Science and Technology Programme,
c/o Department of Chemistry,
National University of Singapore
3 Science Drive 3
Singapore 117543
Email: chmzwb@nus.edu.sg